NASA Langley's Researcher News Makes Online Debut

The Researcher News, NASA Langley Research Center's official newsletter, entered a new era this week, unveiling an Internet edition at <http://researchernews.larc.nasa.gov/>.

"We're delighted to offer editors and aerospace enthusiasts a timely, attractive and interactive way of receiving NASA news and features as an extension of the Researcher News print edition," said managing editor Keith Henry of Langley's Public Affairs Office (PAO).

Publication of the print edition of the Researcher News will continue as usual. The print edition is published every other Friday and distributed to all Langley civil service employees, contractors and retirees, with limited distribution to other NASA centers and, by special request, to other non-NASA individuals and organizations.

Members of the media are invited to "bookmark" the Researcher News Web site and use it as resource for story ideas. The site also includes links to other NASA Web pages.
